This is an increase of 15 transits and 64,419 tons of cargo carried in tankships, as compared with the preceding month. The increase is largely in shipments from the east coast of Mexico and the west coast of South America. Shipments of crude oil through the Canal from the east coast of Mexico were 38,302 tons, as against a monthly average for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, of 21,481 tons; from the west coast of South America shipments were 81,904 tons, as against a monthly average of 30,960 tons for the fiscal year. The average monthly shipments of crude oil from the west coast of the United States through the Canal during the fiscal year 1924, were 708,417 tons, and in July, 1924, these shipments were 463,444 tons, a decrease of 244,977 tons. Tankers made up about 28 per cent of the total commercial transits during July, 1924; about 35 per cent of the total tonnage, Panama Canal measurement; paid about 33 per cent of the total tolls; and carried about 331/2 per cent of the total cargo in transit.
