Vintage. 1 Paperback(s), 1996. soft. Book Condition: New. (Winner of the 1996 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction and the PEN/Faulkner Award) This stunning 1995 sequel to The Sportswriter deepens Richard Ford's portrait of the irresistibly acerbic Frank Bascombe, while giving us an indelible image of late 20th-century America. In the aftermath of his divorce and the ruin of his career, Frank has entered what he calls an "Existence Period," selling real estate in Haddam, New Jersey, and mastering the high-wire act of normalcy. But over one Fourth of July weekend, he is called into sudden, bewildering engagement with life. Protean, funny, profane, wise, often inappropriate, Frank is the American everyman who tells his story in three brilliant novels by Richard Ford that also include The Sportswriter (a finalist for the PEN/Faulkner Award) and The Lay of the Land (a finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award). "With a mastery second to none, Richard Ford has created a character we know as well as our next-door neighbors," wrote the New York Times Book Review. "Frank Bascombe has earned himself a place beside Willy Loman and Harry Angstrom in our literary landscape, but he has done so with a wry wit and a fin de siècle wisdom that is very much his own." Ford is a Babe Ruth of novelists, excelling at every part of the game. Independence Day is a four-bagger smacked way out to Section C-You-Later. All you can do is rise in the stands and cheer. "Washington Post" Each flash of magical dialogue, every rumination a wild surprise. Independence Day is a confirmation of a talent as strong and varied as American fiction has to offer. "NYReview of Books" The time is now the late 1980s, and Frank, divorced, is no longer sportswriting but selling real estate. Frank's plan is to take his teenage...
