Not illustrated. 1914 Excerpt: .Washington for bulletins on soil preparation and seed planting. They tested and planted their seed. They cared for their plants and watered them. When the plants blossomed, Mary each day arranged flowers for the dining-room and for father s office. John carried bouquets to the cripple children s hospital. Each worked on an average of one and a half hours daily. Both were delighted with the work and result and determined next year to have another garden. Across the road from these children twelve-year old Tim lived. His parents neglected to give him an after school job. He wanted to do something, and answered a Boy Wanted ad at the Western Union office. Between the hours of four and seven he carried messages. It was stimulating work. He came and went continually, often to brilliantly lighted houses and gambling halls. He was often in touch with mysterious situations and secretive intrigue. It was new to him; it was stimulating. He was impressionable and untrained. His home had a big yard and garden. His mother kept chickens that they might have fresh eggs for the table, but a yard-man was hired to look after it all. In another home we see Persis, a twelve-year old girl. She has some talent in music, and wishing to make some money with which to take lessons, determines to make it herself. She experimented and found a good variety of peanuts and a reliable method of preparing salted nuts. Her peanuts...
